

Have off-island staff or off-island partners visiting the Island? Good For You offers a unique way to energise, motivate and invigorate delegates at your conferencing events. Offering a refreshing 10, 15 or 30 minute on-site massage to members of your conference ensures you are contributing to their concentration and focus whilst also demonstrating an overall commitment to their well being.

As well as making your delegates refreshed, onsite massage will improve the impact of your key messages and the association they have with your brand. In many cases this time to refocus is an experience a person will remember and relate to your organisation.

Good For You massages help to maintain focus, concentration and fit perfectly into break out times, which can be essential for intense and detailed conferencing events.
